THE MANASSAS PANORANA-15th st. & Ohio se

Senator Reagan's Letter on the Inter

Schator Reagan, in answer to a requesfrom Commissioner Morrison, has written a letter upon the interstate commerce law.

Senator Reagan says: You invite my attention to the proper Inter pretation of section 4 of that act, and ask the question, "What are the circumstances of special cases which will or do justify a sucpension" of the fourth section. I must au-swer, with great deference to the opinion of the commission, that there are no circum-stances or cases which will justify it in suspending that section.

Senator Reagan further says: It was never suggested in the conference committee, where this section received its final shape, or elsewhere that I know of, that under this language the commission might suspend the section and adopt in its stead the exception for the rule. This statement is not in accordance with what was said upon the floor of the Senate when the report of the conference commit-tee was under consideration. On the 10th of January Senator Cullom, who was explaining the fourth section, in answer to an inquiry of Senator Mitchell as to what could be done when there was water competition, said (we quote from the Record): "The section itself does provide that at such a competing point, if the fact does exist, the interstate commission shall have power to give relief upon a showing of the proper state of facts." Mr. Hoar: "The power of suspension is given in a special case." Mr. Cullom: "And, of course, every case of the kind would be a special case if, in the judgment of the commission, it was deemed necessary to relieve the rallroad company at that particular competing point from the operation of the law." Senator Cullem repeated this language again and again, making it even stronger, and it is a well known fact that the inter state commerce bill never could have passed the Senate and become a law if the construction placed upon the fourth section and the proviso, by Senator Reagan, had been considered by the Senate the proper constituction of the words. Senator Reagan continues through what would make at least two columns of the NATIONAL REPUBLICAN to discuss the inter-state commerce law from his standpoint, and concludes his lengthy epistle thus:

I have tried to show in this hasty way in this and my former letters to you that;

1. The commission has no power to suspend

a law of Congress; and 2. If they had, as a matter of discretion, th power to do so, it would be a great wrong and injury to the public, and to a large extent would defeat the great and beneficent purpose of Congress to protect the people agains wrong and oppression, and to subject these corporations to the control and supervision of law as all other persons natural and artificial During all the years this great question was before Congress the paramount issue was whether the people of this country, through the agency of Congress or the railroad corpo rations, should dictate the policy and control the commercial interests of the American people. The people at last triumphed in the passage of this important and fair and just law. Ever since its passage the railroad corporations have, through their officers, agents, lawyers, and hired newspapers, been engaged in a most extraordinary consultacy to secure the nullifi-cation of one at least of its most important provisions, Millions of people with interests involved of thousands of millions of dollars, and with political interests far greater than any money interests at stake, and with bated breath are looking earnestly and anxiously to see whether the commission is to be misied and their rights and interests sacrificed, or pecuniary and political rights preserved.

This last sentence is a masterpiece of low demagogy seldom equaled, and shows exactly the ground upon which Senator Reagan stands and has stood for ten years past in his efforts to secure the passage of his interstate commerce law. He has been pandering to prejudice and at the same time using every effort to excite it.

Without the slightest knowledge of the subject, Senator Reagan, as a member of the house, was the perfect exemplifi-cation of the line which says, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread." He assumed to possess all the learning of the world upon the subject of transportation and the needs of the country, and insisted upon a law which bound the roads in chains of iron, and it was against his wish, against his earnest protest and his vote, that the proviso which authorized the suspension of the fourth section became a part of the

The bill originally reported by Senator Cullom had some objectionable features, but in the main was a good one, looking to the control of the roads. This bill was amended in the Senate, and as passed was more objectionable than the Cuilom bill. The House or Reagan bill was a combination of asinine stupidity and demagogy. The two were put in conference, Senator Cullom as chairman of the committee unfortunately gave way, and the monstrosity which became a law was born in the com-

The manager of one of the leading southern railways, a gentleman of ripe experience and excellent judgment, said to a representative of the National Republican that the enforement of the law for twelve months would bankrupt the south. The representatives of nearly every interest in the south have been before the commission during its recent trip, and have been almost mnanimous in the expression of the opinion that the fourth section should be suspended. But Senator Reagan classes all these as the "officers, agents, lawyers, or hired newspapers" of the corporations, and as unworthy of consideration.

The same arguments have been made before the commission that were made before the committees of Congress. Men who knew the effect the passage of such a law would have on the business of the country made their statements to the committees, and now the same class of men have shown the commission the results. But Mr. Reagan, like the celebrated steam man, continues his monotonous repetition of the old cries he has been making for teu years past.

A week's experience demonstrated the impracticability of the law-showed that it would work the ruin of the very men whom, it was claimed by its advocates, it would benefit, and yet Mr. Reagan comes up serenely and denounces the corpora-

There is not a shadow of doubt, in fact the returns of one hundred and five railwars show, that the law will increase the profits of the railroad companies for the time being, but every man of sense can see that this increase will be but temporary, because of the injury the law does to the producers of the country. Railway managers are generally selected because they are nen of sense, and they see this inevitable result, and for that reason oppose the law. Mr. Reagan, whose mental vision seems to be restricted to the limits of his mental nose, cannot understand why railway men oppose a law which increases their profits. He probably never read how fared the man who killed the goose which daily laid him a golden egg. Continuous small returns gradually increasing with the growth, Im provement, and expansion of the country are better for the rallways than large profits for a short period and then none, because the business of the country is

The people of the country are beginning to understand the workings of this lawto see where it leads and how it affects them. Congress and the President will hear from them on this subject, and they will speak in tones that cannot by mis-

One of two propositions is certainly true The commission can permanently suspend the law as to all the roads or as to none. If it decides that it cannot suspend the law permanently, President Cleveland would do well to have Congress assemble early in September, and recommend the repeal of the fourth section, and such other amendments as common business sense dictates. otherwise there will be such a panic-such an utter disruption of business-such widespread disaster, that it will require a decade to recover from its effects.

WASHINGTON is to be congratulated in having such a business college as that conducted by Mr. H. C. and Mrs. Sara A. Spencer. The business college is growing in favor because it gives a practical education, which fits the student, whether male or female, to enter into the busy walks of life prepared and equipped to do successful battle, and none of these colleges rank higher than the "Spencerian Business College" of Washington.

THE Call, of Key West, Fla., will be issued as a daily after June 1, and will be known as the Evening Call. It will be inlependent in politics and everything else and its editor, Mr. Bryson, will no doubt make it worthy public support,

As the newspapers are about through ap pointing Supreme Court justices, it is probable that President Cleveland will now select some lawyer to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Woods.

Supplies Refused.

The Department of State has received from Consul General Phelan at Hallfax, a report in the case of the American schooner Clara J friend, which was refused permission to purchase supplies at Halifax. The consul general says that the vessel was engaged in deep sea fishing on the banks, that the westher had been very severe and the supplies had become exhausted. If provisions could not be secured in Canada the voyage was likely to prove a failure. The attempt was made with the result already stated.

The New Treasurer. The New Treasurer.

Mr. Hyatt, the newly appointed treasurer, visited the Treasury Department yesterday morning and was presented to all the officers of the treasurer's office by Assistant Treasurer Whelpley. He says he will not take charge of the office before next week, as it will require several days to perfect his official bond and to comply with certain other requirements. He returned to Norwalk, Conn., yesterday afternoon.

CHAPTER I.
"I was taken sick a year ago
With billous fever."

"My doctor pronounced me cured, but I got sick again, with terrible pains in my back and sides, and I got so bad I Could not move!

From 228 lbs, to 120! I had been doctor ing for my liver, but it did no good, I did not expect to live more than three months. I began to use Hop Bitters.

Directly my appetite returned, my pains left me, my entire system seemed renewed as if by magic, and after using several bottles. I am not only as sound as a sovercira, but weigh more than I did before. To Hop Bitters I owe my life."

Hardened Liver. Hardened Liver.

Five years ago I broke down with kidney and liver complaint and rheumatism.

Since then I have been unable to be about at all. My liver became hard like wood; my limbs were puffed up and filled with water. All the best physicians agreed that nothing could cure me. I resolved to try Hop Bitters; I have used seven bottles; the hardness has all gone from my liver, the swelling from my limbs, and it has worked a miracle in my case; otherwise I would have been now in my grave. in my case; otherwise I would have bee now in my grave.
